Dilban and His Cows

By Leon Zolotkoff

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency presents herewith a whimsical account of the live stock of Dilh, the Jewish National Fund Settlement near Jerusalem, to which has been restored the Hebrew name, "Kiryath Anovim." The author, a nationally known Zionist and writer, who hails from Chicago, but who spent much time in New York, has settled in Palestine, and by arrangement will contribute frequent descriptions of human interest. — Copyright, 1923, Jewish Correspondence Bureau.

Dilban is a steer, a clear-cut, jet-black quadruped, not different in his outward appearance from many another bull of the bovine family; but on observing his lofty manner, his grand style of living, and the herd of beautiful cows claiming him as their lord and master, one inevitably gains the impression of standing not before a common brute, but a bovine aristocrat, an ox of distinction.

Since the days of Apis, the worshipped bull of Egypt, there were few among Dilban's forefathers who could boast of such comforts and pleasures as fell to the lot of this horned beast. His greatest distinction, however, consists in the fact that he was acquired by Kiriath Anavim, about ten miles from Jerusalem, and while enjoying life to the fullest extent, he is indirectly serving the interests of the Jewish nation. Upon his powerful broad shoulders rests the responsibility for the natural increase of the herd as well as for his milk-producing capacity.

Small wonder, therefore, that he is treated with the utmost consideration by the K'Wutzah or group of young settlers who constitute the population of Kiriath Anavim, and is accorded the means of living in a style suited to his lofty position.

Within the spacious cut stone stable housing the herd, Dilban maintains private quarters in a stall all by himself. On the door of his stall the name "Dilban" is inscribed in large Hebrew letters —a name derived from Dilb, which is the Arab designation for that part of the country. When in quest of an appropriate name for the noble quadruped, the group agreed on "Dilban" because of its phonetic force, and because it suggested the locality in which he held forth, thus expressing the title of "Herr von Dilb" as far as a two-syllable word could express it.

I met Dilban immediately upon my reaching Kiriath Anavim. He was standing, meditatively, in the centre of the stone-fenced farm-yard, facing the chain of the rugged Judean hills, lining the horizon. His black hide glistened in the sun of an ideal spring day. With stoic indifference he watched the men and women by the wooden barracks, and white canvass tents, the stooped figures of the young women who worked with the hoe and spade in the nearby vegetable garden weeding out superfluous plants, and the movements of a few men with pick-ax and shovel on the top of a hill farther up. With much closer attention he followed the movements of a young woman on a donkey carrying away from the the garden a bag of succulent grass and singing some Hebrew melody on her way to the stable. It was not the song that attracted Dilban's attention, for he never manifested a sense for music, but he evidently knew what was in the bag which the singer carried on the donkey's back. His long tail wagged slightly, one of his front legs stood out a pace as if not quite determined to move, and his powerful head and neck were raised high in the air. He looked the picture of strength and bovine grace.

Dilban, the pampered aristocrat of Kiriath Anavim, has reason enough to feel cheety. He alone is privileged to live with his numerous family in a stone-built structure of stately dimensions, while his biped attendants, who seem to be therefore the whole purpose of ministering to his needs, must content themselves with makeshift barracks of boards and canvass. His stable is thus far the only solid structure in the settlement. Dilban must have his castle. And there is a line of trenches around the stable suggestive of the moats which protected the old-time castles. Kiriath Anavim is prepared to defend Dilban and his cows against all enemies, in all emergencies.

Occasionally Dilban condescends to play some pranks on his attendants. One of them he notices coming in his direction, so he lowers his powerful head ready to gore him. "Loh, loh, Diban!" warns the young colonist; but Dilban disregarding the warning, moves for the attack, and in the next moment jumps joyfully aside to dodge a heavy-booted kick on the forehead.

Well may Dilban indulge in such playful tricks for a pastime. His is the happy life of dolce par niente. He knows full well that while he thus amuses himself his biped friends will not fail to clean up the stable, to neatly brush the hides and tails of his cows and to otherwise provide for his home comforts.

A variety of sounds issues from the stable, and Dilban turns his head in that direction. The soulful tender mu-u-u is intermingled with Hebrew ejaculations such as "Hey, Adumah, imdi!" (Hey, Reddy, stand still!) or "Hey, Sh'chora, hatzidah! (Hey, blacky, step aside!). Dilban is imperturbed. He gathers that a female of his biped attendants is busying herself at the respective stalls of the cows answering to those names. And when he hears a small, thin voice lisping the words "Kumi, Eglah!" (stand up, calf!) he recognizes the voice of the blue-eyed, red-cheeked, flaxen-haired, two years old tot who crept in the stable after her mother to have a chat with her favourite calf.

Suddenly Dilban snorted, displeased. Two khaki-clad long-booted attendants, followed by a couple of milk-maids, came to invite him back to his stall. The cows had to be led out to be milked in the yard, and on such occasions Dilban was likely to begin a flirtation and cause a diversion. Dilban showed reluctancy, but yielded to the courteous but firm insistence of the two male attendants. He re-entered his stall with a jumpy jerk suggestive of a mild protest.

Such is the care-free luxurious life led by Dilbane. His only function is to assist in bringing forth a new generation, and, to his credit be it said, that this function he performs conscientiously and with an eager will. His cows, too, seem to be contented and happy. Not only are they larger and sleeker than the average Arab cow, but they also yield almost three times as much milk, and of a better quality. It is due to their generosity that the little dairy in Kiriath Anavim is quite a success.

Sol. Lamport Sailing; Will Visit Palestine

New York—(J.C.B.)—Mr. Morris Weinberg, publisher of "The Day," and Mrs. Weinberg sailed last week for Europe on the Cunard S.S. "Berengaria." They are going abroad principally to investigate emigration problems and conditions as they affect this country. He will travel as a special representative of the United States government.

Mr. Sol. Lamport is also sailing on the S.S. "Berengaria" to-day. He will visit Palestine in order to decide upon large investments he expects to make there.

The Anglo-Jewish Association

We have before us the very interesting fifty-first annual report of the Anglo-Jewish Association in which, to the credit of the members of our city, the Toronto branch is mentioned as the largest individual contributing branch having sent the record sum of £254.

The Anglo-Jewish Association, since its inception in 1871, though an independent organization has worked harmoniously with the Alliance Israelite Universelle of Paris, France, with which it is connected. It has, like the latter, for its objects:

"To work everywhere for the emancipation and moral progress of the Jews.

"To give effectual support to those who are suffering persecution because they are Jews.

"To encourage all publications calculated to promote these ends."

The Alliance Israelite Universelle, the parent society, was founded by six Jews of Paris, in 1860. Aristide Astruc, afterward Chief Rabbi of Belgium; Isidore Cahen, editor of the Archives Israelites; Jules Carvallo, civil engineer; Narcisse Leven, lawyer, Professor Eugene Manuel and Charles Netter, merchant—all men of good standing, but at that time not particularly prominent in the Paris community.

Repeated attacks upon the Jews by fanatical sects of various denominations had long made it apparent that something should be done on an organized scale. The assassination of Father Thomas at Damascus in 1840 had given rise to an accusation of ritual murder against the Jews of that city. Sir Moses Montefiore together with Adolphe Cremieux, a lawyer minister of justice in 1848 and a member of the government of national defence in 1871, and Solomon Munk, the eminent Orientalist, proceeded at once to Egypt to intercede with Mehemet Ali and to defend the accused. This event brought forcibly to light the necessity for a central organization that should undertake the defense of the oppressed Jews scattered throughout the world, and the Jewish journals of Germany and France made earnest appeals for the creation of such an institution. Owing, however, to lack of agreement or perseverance their utterances remained without any practical issue for twenty years.

A crime perpetrated in the Papal States in 1858, with the connivance of the papal government, aroused world-wide indignation. A child, Edgar Mortara, was torn from his Jewish parents and forcibly baptised. This outrage against religious liberty contributed much to strengthen the general sentiment for organized protection, and as a result two years later the Alliance Israelite Universelle came into existence under the auspices of the above-named publicists, Jews of Paris. The Alliance Israelite Universelle has done excellent work during the fifty-three years of its existence and still continues its beneficent activities, adhering to its original principles.

Mr. Mark Samuel was the first president of the Toronto Branch, and continued in office until 1887, when he returned to his former home in Liverpool, England.

The Toronto Branch now numbers 144 members, whose last annual individual subscription averaged eight dollars.

Mr. Edmund Scheuer has been a member of the Alliance Israelite Universelle at their Paris office from 1866 (when Adolphe Cremieux was its president) to 1886, when he transferred his allegiance to the Toronto Branch of the Anglo-Jewish Association. He has held the office of President of the Toronto Branch since 1894.

The other officers of the Branch are: Mr. Wm. Goldstein, Vice-President; Mr. Samuel King, Hon. Secretary (since 1893); Mr. Frank D. Benjamin, Treasurer.

Members of the Committee: Rabbi Brickner, Mr. Leo Frankel, Mr. Jacob Cohen, J.P., Mr. Max Fremes.

Subscriptions and donations will be gratefully received by any of the officers or members of the committee, and acknowledged in the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.

IMMIGRATION BARS TO BE KEPT UP, SAYS JOHNSON

New York—(J.C.B.).—Congress will continue to restrict immigration, according to Albert Johnson, Chairman of the House Committee on Immigration, who defended the present immigration law in a speech last night before members of the American Defense Society at the Hotel Biltmore.

"Congress will not turn the immigration question over to a commission," he said, "with power to increase or decrease the flood. The United States has too many Federal commissions now, and a commission with power to feed near-serf labourers into the mines and mills would be the worst commission of all."

He defended the quota system as productive of the best results.

Rabbi Brickner in Brantford

For the third time in a year Rabbi Brickner has been the guest of some organization in Brantford. Last week he addressed a largely attended luncheon of the Rotary Club on the subject, "Investing in Boys as a Form of National Insurance for citizenship."

The local paper devoted a column and a half to Rabbi Brickner's address and called it the most masterly lecture heard in Brantford in many a day.

In the evening Rabbi Brickner was the guest of the Jewish Boys' Scout Troop of that city. It was the occasion of their first anniversary, which they celebrated in the form of a banquet. The entire troop and their parents, and several non-Jewish guests interested in the Boy Scout troops, were present. Rabbi Brickner was given a rousing welcome.

New York Papers Praise Toronto Man

New York papers are enthusiastic in their praise of Mr. Ira Bloom, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bloom, 978 Queen St. W., who has a national reputation as a director of physical training and athletics. At present director of athletics at Brooklyn Tech, Mr. Bloom is the best known maker of future football players for college elevens in New York as the Globe and Commercial Advertiser says. This paper goes on to say:

"In stature, Ira Bloom stands hardly more than five feet three inches in height. Despite his size, however, Bloom has never found it difficult to manage any men who have tried out for his teams. He has that demeanor about him that causes one to be up and doing something or other. That is the spirit the diminutive coach instills in his players; the spirit to get going and keep at it. Time and again he has produced winning teams with barely more than ordinary material.

MR. IRA BLOOM

"Bloom is the typical 'minor league manager,' developing players in high school to send to college with some knowledge of the pushing pigskin game. In the ten years or more that Bloom has been coaching he has had the satisfaction of knowing that a great many of his proteges played with college elevens."

Mr. Bloom left Toronto in 1904 to study at Columbia University. He earned distinction as an athlete and student, receiving the degree of bachelor of arts in 1908 and master of arts and master's diploma in physical education in 1909. In athletics Mr. Bloom has won high honours in almost every branch of sport. After leaving College he immediately entered the field as a director of physical training and athletics and his record as a coach is one long string of successes.

YAHUDIM AND YIDDIN

The Keren Hayesod campaign which is just closing in Toronto, is significant in many ways, not merely for Toronto, but for other communities as well where similar conditions prevail. The least of these is the comparatively small collection which totals to date about $32,000 of this sum, $18,000 has already been gathered in hard cash and the remaining $14,000 is in the form of pledges. In spite of this comparatively small sum, small not only in proportion to the Jewish population of Toronto, but small, too, in the sight of the sum collected the year previous, a great deal of credit is due to that band of loyal and devoted Zionists, mostly women, who canvassed. It is noteworthy that the Keren Hayesod has become an established and popular institution, to which Jews acknowledge that they owe an obligation. Canvassers find it much easier to approach people in its behalf than in former occasions. Zionism is no longer a matter of debate and of probability for most Jews. It is a reality, which all even the non-Zionists, appreciate. We say non-Zionists, for we do not believe that there are any appreciable number of anti-Zionists among Jews. That day has passed. It is now merely a matter of turning indifference into active enthusiasm and participation. This time and Zionist education can affect, and both of these are very powerful auxiliaries. The campaign experience has taught us that the Zionist organization cannot afford to neglect this all important [illegible] work. Now that Zionism is a matter of world politics, it is doubly essential to keep the facts and true interpretation of [illegible] before the Jewish public.

In reviewing the list of subscribers to this campaign we are struck with the growing number of names of people, who, in some quarters are designated as Yahudim, many of these names are not to be found on previous Zionist subscription lists. The subscriptions of these people are not among the smaller sums either. On the other hand, we are struck with the total absence of the names from the list of many so-called orthodox Jews who are known to be well-to-do, and to whom Zionism and the "love of Zion" is supposed to be a matter of religious principle. We are also surprised to notice the small subscriptions of other orthodox Jews who should do better. There is another element to be considered of people who once regarded themselves as Zionists and nationalists, and upon whom fortune has smiled broadly, yet who do not contribute to charity because they don't believe in charity, and who fail the Keren Hayesod because the Jewish Commonwealth in Palestine is being built on the capitalistic principles of private property, etc.

These are the people who are free with their criticism of the Yahudim, and who in season and out of season denounce the other fellow as being an "assimilator." Is it not a pity that some orthodox Jews should be permitted to hide behind the mantle of their orthodoxy, and whilst not giving themselves, or giving not in proportion to their ability, yet are free to criticise others? These others are not only getting more friendly, but are manifesting their friendliness by contributing. After all is said and done, that is what counts now. There are Zionists and orthodox Jews, whose Zionism is platonic. They were good Zionists when it cost little or nothing. Now when it has begun to cost, they salve their niggardly conscience by heaping criticism on the "Yahudim" and the "assimilators." At least, the latter have an excuse for not contributing to the Keren Hayesod, but what excuse can these orthodox Jews, who do not give, offer?

Nahum Sokolow, the other day, just before leaving Poland, stated that he regarded it as most essential for the Zionist movement to win over the American Reform Jews and their temples for Zionism. We agree with him. Zionism is not the monopoly of orthodox Jewry. It should be the right of every Jew to be a Zionist whether he be orthodox, reform, or non-religious. But we do not believe that it is either tactful or fair to expect to win this element in Jewry by supercilious arrogance.

The writer holds no brief for any Jew who does not contribute to the Keren Hayesod. We have maintained that the Keren Hayesod should be supported by every Jew, but we are amazed that the Zionist organization should permit this sort of harmful criticism to prevail and gain credence. It could soon put a stop to it, by discrediting it and by pointing out how many who claim to be Zionist and orthodox, and who by every law of justice and fairness should be supporting the Keren Hayesod, do not. Such criticism as we have here referred to, merely serves to do damage and destroy. It splits the community up into "classes," and makes one element hostile to the other, not on the basis of principles, but as an outcome of foolish gossip and tongue-wagging. In the end, the Keren Hayesod must be the loser.

In Toronto, the distinction between Yahudim and Yiddin is a figment of the imagination, and a carrying over of a purely U.S.A. condition.

It is unfortunate that it should suit a certain element in this city to keep on stirring up mischief by constantly condemning and denouncing, in the most vulgar and ungentlemanly manner of speech and attitude, these so-called Yahudim. We strongly suspect that this element "feeds on this sort of meat," and that is for some people a plain matter of "parnosa." It seems to be to their interest to brew trouble in the community.

In all the truly communal centres in this city, the so-called Yahudim play a conspicuous role, not merely in terms of monetary contributions but also in personal service.

The only Yahudim we know is that type of Kalvarier Yid, who, having acquired a little money, buys himself a new house on the hill, and calls all the other of his former landsleute "kikes," because they speak English with a worse accent than he does. This sort of person when asked for a subscription to the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, or the Keren Hayesod, generally tells you that he cannot possibly give, because he has just spent $40,000 on a new house, or bought a $5,000 car. It is also in the nature of the brute to regard as socially below him all not as rich as he. His wife and daughters have strict orders not to mix or invite to tea and bridge the wives and daughters of the "socially below us."

So far as we know, the only social distinctions are those created by this class of nouveau riches and social climbers. The rest of us do not recognize any class distinction between Jew and Jew based on synagog affiliation, country of origin, wealth or occupation.

In the larger communal ventures and interests let us all be just Jews.

"Sometimes when people censure me,
I call them without rancour
That for what it cost me to be free
I might have had an anchor."

Next to the Jews, pro and con, the subject which most taxes the supply of print paper in this decade of high civilization, is that of woman, lovely and unlovely, married and single, Jewish as well as Gentile. Such books as "Main Street" and "This Freedom," are signs of a time when woman is being card-indexed and filed according to what she is, was and may be, given sufficient rope. In general she is the chosen anxiety of many writers, and as a Jewess she receives mention, honourable and otherwise from writers and pulpiteers of her own race. Most of them cherish some optimism, as to a worth-while type emerging from what is happening now, but the sad-eyed one sees the extinction of home, mother, rocking chairs, cribs and other appurtenances pertaining. Some prefer a trifle wistfully, the woman who once reigned efficiently within four walls, but are also able to write stimulatingly of others, elated by their political emancipation and economic liberation who spend their time in business or professions in club work or the like. One of the most astringent of the male letters in America, H. L. Mencken, believes that women are only toying with these things until they recover from the shock of sudden freedom, and that they will always be more interested in men than by their very natures. All the writers have plenty of animus for the rich married woman they call pet names, because parasite springs on the ground that she has too little to do and too much money to do it with. If we remember correctly, in this preaching, Veblen was not so Jewish, but with that remarkable aptitude we have have for taking on the colour of our surroundings we have taught the rich Goyim in the overproduction of the woman parasite as well as the rich son parasite. The writers grant that the woman need not be lazy, but not always stupid, that the waste-time over-dressed over-restlessness with a craving for some profession or career but, whether stupid or not, she is always in want of enough personal work to do as an outlet for her energies and that she gets better results more rest cures annually than per cent of her sex. Dr. Phillip A. Langdon writing in the Ladies Home Journal, complains that while there is enough harm done by women misunderstanding her interests on business or society alone the woman who gives her children, she has any, to a nursemaid spends her time at clubs and gossip and lives in a doll's house of indulgence without responsibilities is right now spoiling the broth of civilization. He says with asperity that a public opinion be created that will shame the idle, rich Jewess out of neglecting the small details, without giving anything valuable in return, either with a new home or service in Heights. This is deep stuff and takes us out of our depth since we know so many specimens to the contrary and their proper hours. On the other hand we know a woman who has the courage to rear a splendid family splendidly, but never able to get a penthouse in the career she has followed by means of silent and unostentatious [illegible] Her intimate home interests make her more vital and her outside interests enrich her home life. Hibben Accuses New York Herald and Boston Transcript

OF LEADING ANTI-SEMITIC CAMPAIGN

New York—(J. C. B.).—Charging that refugee Russians lecturing in the United States, "in the role of dispossessed intellectuals," are fostering a campaign of hostile propaganda against them by claiming Russia is ruled by Jews and are thus responsible for every crime charged against Russia, Captain Paxton Hibben, formerly of the American diplomatic service, in a statement to the Jewish Correspondence Bureau, asserts the "New York Herald" and "Boston Transcript" are taking the lead in the campaign which is becoming more definitely anti-Semitic in character.

Captain Hibben has been engaged in relief work in Russia and the Near East since 1919, and at present is director of the Nansen American Committee for Relief of Russian Children.

"Of course, such a campaign as this is the very antithesis of every fundamental American principle," Captain Hibben states. "Anti-Semitism is a noxious growth which had its roots in the religious intolerances of the middle ages in Europe; it has no place in this new world of ours; just as it has no place in the new world that the revolution has created in Russia.

"The form which this campaign is taking is to profit by all the hostile propaganda which has been current against Russia for the past five years by claiming that Russia is run by the Jews, and thus to make the Jews responsible in the public mind for every crime which has been charged against Russia. For this purpose, Trotzky is constantly held up as the real power in Russia, because Trotzky is a Jew; and Russia is being systematically charged with a campaign against Christianity on account of the mythical rule of Russia by the Jews. This particular alignment serves a double purpose for those Tsarist Russian refugees who foster it—it hits both new Russia and the Jews, together, which is what these reactionaries desire.

"This sort of propaganda has, in almost every case, been the work of refugee Russians lecturing about the United States in the role of dispossessed intellectuals. They are utterly unscrupulous in what they say and abysmally ignorant of the history of their own country, either since the revolution or before," Captain Hibben concludes.

JEWS WOUNDED IN CZERNOWITZ STUDENT RIOT

Czernowitz (J. T. A.).—Professor Zadri, Jewish soloist at a concert here, has sustained several serious head wounds, and a number of Jews received lighter injuries, during an attack on the audience by anti-Semitic students who came from Jassy for the purpose. Police arrived too late to prevent any of the damage, later arresting members of the Jewish self-defence corps. Kolnik, a Jewish painter who visited America in the company of Rubin, another artist, is among those taken into custody.

Bialick's Jubilee Fittingly Celebrated

The "Neshef Bialick" arranged by the Hebrew Culture Club Tarbuth for Sunday, April 29, in honour of the fiftieth birthday of the great poet and personality, Ch. N. Bialick, was a fitting and suitable expression of the love and reverence which the folk feels toward its poet. To an audience that filled the Zionist Hall to overflowing, Rabbi Siegel, president of the organization spoke in a fluent and vigorous Hebrew, on Bialick's style and about the many additions to the current vocabulary introduced by him. The speaker said that because Bialick was so closely attached to his people, because he loved them so in its joys and miseries, he was able to divine instinctively what style and vocabulary would best suit his act and appeal best to the people. He reinstated the Mishna, the Talmud, and the Aggada as sources of language and models of style, and so showed his reverence for those literary treasures which the people held in so great esteem. The result was a wonderful enrichment of diction, a surprising plasticity, and a truly national style.

Mr. A. Rhinewein, editor of the Hebrew Journal, spoke in Yiddish on the most important of Bialick's poems in Yiddish and in Hebrew, and particularly about Bialick's tears, and his passionate and intense feelings for his people's woes and sorrows.

Cantor Saitz rendered Bialick's "Yam Lieder" and "Techzakno" as well as Brochov's "Shoshano." He was accompanied by Miss Rogol, Miss Cohan and Miss Nussbaum recited the song "To the Bird" and "The Slaughter." Little Miss Nechomo Green gave a number on the piano. The meeting closed with the singing of the Hatikvah.

REMNANT OF KOLTCHAK ARMY EXHAUSTS BALANCE OF RUSSIAN QUOTA

Washington (J. C. B.)—The augmentation of the Russian quota by the recent ruling of the Labour Department adding the Bessarabia quota to it, will not bring more Russian and Ukrainian refugees to these shores. President Harding decided to permit the transportation to the United States of the 500 Russian refugees, who recently landed in the Phillipines after a stormy voyage in their own ships from Vladivostok.

Plans to bring the refugees to this country on an army transport were mapped out at the conference of the President, Secretary Weeks, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross will have charge of relief measures for the Russians upon their arrival in their country. Admission will be possible under the immigration law, inasmuch as the Russian quota has not been exhausted for the year ending June 30.

Secretary Weeks said the refugees who are remnants of a band opposed to the Soviet regime, would make desirable citizens. Most of them, he said, are skilled workers, professional or technical men. Arrangments to bring them to this country have been virtually completed and the work will be undertaken immediately.

Dr. I. R. Smith Urges Changing Condition In Children's Home

The regular monthly meeting of the Jewish Children's Home took place Tuesday afternoon at the home. Mrs. S. Greenfarb presided. Among the matters that came up for discussion was an erroneous report which appeared in one of the local papers stating that the children do not receive sufficient instruction in Jewish. This report was proved to be unbased and incorrect as the children attend the Junction Talmud Torah.

Mrs. Norman Helpert then told of her investigation into the matter and her visit with Mr. Edmund Scheuer to the Cheder where everything was found to be in a satisfactory condition. In addition to the Talmud Torah, Mr. Scheuer instructs a class weekly in Jewish history and religious knowledge.

The financial report was read by Mrs. Norman Helpert. Reports were given were given by members on the various committees. The need for beautifying the grounds at small cost was considered and a committee of ladies volunteered to give a bridge for this purpose. In charge of the committee are: Mrs. Louis Singer and Mrs. I. Berk.

Dr. I. R. Smith who is the medical supervisor of the Home, and is actively interested in facilitating and improving the welfare of the children, emphasized the need of enlarging the present building so as to admit proper sleeping accommodation according to health requirements which he found was now overlooked because of overcrowding. He also suggested the appointment of a dentist to the medical staff who whould give the children regular monthly examinations.

"It is important to have several rooms which should be known as sick or isolation rooms," said Dr. Smith. "At present when a child is ill he is kept with other children and they are immediately exposed to the infection which may sometimes pass rapidly through a whole institution and produce a great deal of harm. This is extremely important and should be arranged immediately above all other things, as there is no accommodation for the sick child at present."

A new dispensary and also separate wash rooms for boys and girls with individual lockers, was urged by the speaker. He gave an instructive and studied account of a record system, which was afterwards shown on slides. The records consisted of history form used by the social service department, child register, social family history, modern medical history form, financial form and school record, dental examination form and clinical chart. It would be of important value and great help to the institute in keeping a detailed account of each child upon their entrance and during their stay in the home.

"These records would enable accurate information that is essential for adequate investigation and invaluable aid in solving all the problems that come before you in regard to your caring of children," he concluded.

Crowds Turned Away at Herzl Hadassah Revue

To secure sufficient accommodation for Hadassah members had been the chief difficulty of the Hadassah officers during the past few weeks. Practically without effort the entire house was sold out long in advance of the show.

The entire performance went off with a dash and finish that was a revelation to the audience.

The Junior Hadassah Chorus in the big Barney Google Musical Comedy in four scenes was literally an eye-opener (especially to Hadassah husbands and brothers).

The Goblin Goofs brought down the house with their finale; the "Gimme Mah Laundry" number was a scream; "A Man's Honour" was a very ambitious well-acted playlet; Jackie Lewis and "Toots" Shumer convulsed the house with laughter; and the special extra number featured Harold Rich with his Toronto orchestra, Ruth Bookman in "Streaks of Syncopation," and Jess Jaffey who out "Eddied" Eddy Cantor.

Among the theatre parties given at the Herzl-Hadassah Revue, Tuesday evening, were: Brandeis Girls, Herzl Girls, Daughters of Zion Chapters of Hadassah, Ruth Girls.

The performers at the Herzl Hadassah Revue were entertained at a midnight supper at the Zionist Institute Tuesday evening following the performance at Loew's Winter Garden.

St. Catharines

The community of St. Catharines was treated royally to a side-splitting comedy sketch held by the Dramatic Society of the St. Catharines Hebrew Club on Sunday evening, April 29 in their Club Rooms. The sketch was entitled "School Days" and proved a laugh from start to finish. The cast included the following members in their respective roles as: "Prof. Gugenheim," majestically played by John Grossman; "Tony the Wop," "ver' ver' good" by E. Offstein; "The Jew," developed dramatically by our popular star, Joe Stein; "Cissie" most "girlishly" put over by Abe Cohen, and "The Big Niggah," by our popular blackface artist, Dave Cohen.

Before the sketch the following young people took part in an interesting programme: piano solo, by Julia Hoffman; recitation, by Rose Karzman; dance by Baby Stein.

MARRIAGES

Engel—Frankel

A much anticipated wedding took place Monday afternoon at one o'clock, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Frankel, 229 Wellesley Street, Toronto, when their eldest daughter, Irene Evelyn, became the bride of Mr. Jack Albert Engel, of Montreal, son of the late Mr. Aaron Engel and Mrs. Engel. The home was beautifully decorated with spring flowers, of which the predominating colors were pink and yellow, twined with smilax and fern. Rabbi B. K. Brickner officiated at the ceremony, which took place in the drawing room, under a pretty innovation of a semi-arch made by the drooping branches of tall palms banked against the wall and forming a semi-circle. On either side was arranged high white standers filled with baskets of dainty pink flowers. From the centre of the palms hung a white dove clasping a lover's knot.

To the strains of the wedding march the bride entered on the arm of her father, preceded by her attendants. Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a white French gown of crepe meteor. Her long court-train fell in graceful folds from the shoulders and was caught with small sprays of orange blossoms and the long tulle veil was arranged with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Alma Levy, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor in a gown of powder blue Moreain crepe, she carried a bouquet of pink Premier roses. Miss Edna Frankel was her aunt's bridesmaid, dressed in a French blue denisette crepe and carrying a bouquet of pink Premier roses.

The groom's attendants were Mr. H. E. Herschorn, of Montreal, best man, and Mr. Egmont Frankel, groomsman. After the ceremony a family dinner was given. An orchestra was in attendance during the afternoon. Later, a reception was held from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. S. Frankel, mother of the bride, received, and was handsomely gowned in cocoa brown canton crepe, trimmings of gold with corsage bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Maurice Frankel wore black charmeuse and Mrs. Jake Levy, aunt of the bride, was dressed in mountain blue crepe with touches of blue beading in deeper tone. Miss Elsie Levy, of Hamilton, was becomingly dressed in Princess Mary blue with a Spanish combo. Mrs. Engel, of Montreal, mother of the groom, was gowned in black lace over charmeuse, with corsage of orchids. Mrs. Herman Frankel, of Montreal, wore a brown filet lace gown. Mrs. Mina Brandeis, Montreal, sister of the groom, was gowned in black. Mrs. H. Loeser was in navy georgette, beaded; Mrs. Pauline Kallmever was in black lace; Miss Mayer was gowned in black, and Mrs. B. R. Brickner in deep rose georgette.

The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond wrist watch; bracelet to the attendants silver mesh bags, and to the best man a wrist watch.

The out-of-town guests were Miss Elsie Levy, Hamilton; Mr. I. Frankel, Mr. and Mrs. H. Frankel, Mr. B. Frankel, Mrs. Fage, Mr. N. Fage, Mrs. Mina Brandeis, Mr. Joe Frankel, Mr. Paul Franke, Mr. S. Frankel, Mr. Nathan Cumming and Mr. Lansing, Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Engel left on a wedding trip to New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia, the bride travelling in a smart navy blue suit, small blue hat with rose trimmings and a brown wrap.

Aikens—Cohen

A pretty wedding took place at 8.30 p.m. Tuesday, April 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Cohen, 1008 Dundas Street West, Toronto, when their youngest daughter, Lillian, was united in marriage to Mr. Joseph Aikens, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Aikens, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. Wladowsky. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of white canton crepe, caught with orange blossoms and trimmed with strings of pearls. Her veil was surmounted by a coronet of pearls. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. W. Pinkus, who acted as matron of honor and was preceded by two little flower girls carrying baskets of sweet peas. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. Hyman Cohen, of Melbourne, Australia, uncle of the bride, who toasted the couple at the reception; and Mr. L. Kates, of Montreal, uncle of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Aikens left on a short trip, the bride wearing a gown of copper-colored duvetine crepe trimmed with accordian-pleated panels, and hose with gold lace, satin shoes, and fur coat, and Russian wrap of sand squirrel.

Cainer—Hazzz

On Tuesday, April 17, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. [illegible], 1041 Bathurst Street, when Sadie Barnett, youngest daughter of Mrs. Mary Barnett, became the bride of Mr. Harry Cainer, son of Mr. Simon Cainer, of Leeds, England. BALFOUR

The annual elections were held last Sunday at the Balfour Club Rooms on Spadina Avenue. The following were elected: President, Herman Bennett; vice-president, Herman Moscoe; secretary, Ben Dworkin; treasurer, John Pollack; athletic manager, E. Einbinder; social, I. English; Marshall, H. Rogow; house committee: S. Breslin, I. English, E. Einbinder. Past president Max Donn, ex-officio without portfolio.

In his retiring address to the club, Mr. Donn commented on the Balfour's showing in the past year. They had won the Junior Rugby Championship of the city. They had tied the Y.M.H.A. for first place in hockey, and were just nosed out for the city indoor baseball championship.

Its social ventures were great successes, and its literary work reflected credit on the club.

The Balfour Club at present contains some of the best debating material in the city and will soon be out with a challenge to the far famed Herzl team.

The Keren Hayesod campaign did not find the Balfours lagging behind and as a result of the energy in that direction, the fund benefitted to the extent of $500.

The fourth annual dance will be held at the Metropolitan Hall on Wednesday, May 23.

NEW LEAGUE

At the organization meeting held Tuesday, April 17, at the Balfour Club Rooms, the following officers were elected to look after the interest of the newly formed league: President, Mr. Herman Bennett; vice-president, Mr. Harry Spector; secretary, Mr. Mack Mandel; treasurer, Mr. Arthur Richtiger.

The league is composed of the Hasmoneans, Balfours, Amphions and Orions. The teams will have in their line-ups some of the best indoor baseball players in the city.

EDITOR,
CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW:

I would appreciate it if you could publish in your paper a small item regarding the whereabouts of my uncle, whose name I will give you. The last I heard from him was when I was in England and he was in Toronto. That was about 14 years ago. His brother (who is my father) is very anxious to hear from him and asked me to write you. When we did hear from him he was a junk dealer. Kindly see what you can do for me and let me know of any results. My name before marriage was Miss Mary Pliss and my uncle's name is Mr. Ben Pliss.

The witnesses were Misses Helen Goldstein and Helen Lavine, and Messrs. Korn, Weil and Levy.

Following the trial, Miss Lillian Wickster sang, and Mr. E. F. Singer, superintendent of the school, in a short speech, complimented the members of the caste on their good work.

Refreshments were served by the young ladies of the Society.

Rabbi Krieger, of Lithuania, and more recently of Frankford, Germany, who has spent a few weeks in Toronto in the interests of the Rabbinical College of America (The Yeshivah) is proceeding to Hamilton where he will speak at the principal synagogs on Saturday, May 5. Rabbi Krieger is a man of great knowledge gifted with a most remarkable memory and understanding insight. He was recognized in Europe as one of the great Rabbis, although he is a comparatively young man, only forty years of age. His distinguished accomplishments were soon recognized by all with whom he came in contact in the course of his stay in Toronto, and he has many personal friends in the city. By speaking in the Synagog and through personal solicitation, Rabbi Krieger raised the sum of sixteen hundred dollars for the Rabbinical College. Thanks are due to the officers of the Synagogs, to Messrs. G. Kling, M. Siegel, J. Prager, Pollack, S. Weber, for their interest in Rabbi Krieger's mission and for the valuable assistance these latter gave him in his work. Thanks are also due to Rabbi Weinreb and Rabbi Siegel for their assistance. ROUMANIA TO LIMIT JEWISH UNIVERSITY ADMISSIONS

Bucharest (J. T. A.)—Declaring that the government was considering a measure providing for the limitation of Jewish students in the universities, Minister of Education Anghelescu appealed to the anti-Semitic student-body to keep the peace. The Minister assured the students of an early ordinance being promulgated regulating Jewish admissions. Students belonging to the association headed by the anti-Semitic Professor Kuza agreed to cause no disturbances, pending the enforcement of the order. In the meantime, they proclaimed a "peaceful boycott" on Jewish students, demanding separate seats for them in the classrooms and lecture halls.

given an encore. Miss Ruby Rossini gave two of her new songs, and was well encored. Miss Hilda Bishop also gave two vocal selections and created a fine impression. An instrumental trio which was much appreciated was rendered by Willie Goldsmith, Abie Bloom and Taras Hubicki. Sammy Freidman's solo on the banjo, "Poet and Peasant" was a marvel of execution and melody. Bert Hook assisted at the piano. Jack Van der Stratten received a warm welcome for his work as tenor soloist. The most artistic work of the night was the interpretative dancing of Madame Zinck's pupils, the settings on the large stage and the lightings added much to the artistic effectiveness of the presentation. Those taking part and the numbers given were: "The Way of Old Pekin," Marie Bargen, Alice Folb, Gertrude Smalley, Eleanor McDonald; "Echo of the Ballet," Yentle Fred; "Spanish Fandango," Eleanor Cohen; "Russian Patrician," Harriette Beauregard; "Little Dutchie," Audrey Penston; "Espanita," Mildred Beauregard; "Salambo," Yentle Fred; "Narcissus" (classical toe dance), Eleanor Cohen; "Iris" (gavotte), Marie Bargen, Alice Folb, Gertrude Smalley, and Eleanor McDonald.

At the close of the dancing Eleanor Cohen was given a floral tribute, and loud calls for Madame Zinck brought that lady to the front of the footlights, where admirers of her work presented to her a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Much fun was created by "Zena" in a whirlwind dance, and after the applause had subsided the dancer appeared in the wings minus her wig—it was a "hel" Other accompanists of the evening were Miss Levack and Mr. I. Chaminetsky and Mr. Hoyt Grant.

The receipts of the affair were well over $800.00.

Those whose untiring efforts helped to make this affair such a success are Mrs. Saltzman, Miss Petal and Mr. Harry Zimmermann, who is every ready to lend a helping hand and direct any theatrical affair that our worthy organizations produce, and Mr. J. Harza through whose kindness the theatre was obtainable.

Y.M.H.A.

The Y.M.H.A. under stress of circumstances found itself in the position of either having to close its doors, or else, by some extraordinary effort, to secure the active support of the Jewish business and professional men and women of the city. As usual, this has beeen assured and the leaders in every rank of the Community have stepped in to the assistance of this necessary organization which has been in existence for over four years, and has been ever ready to help, in whatever way they have been called upon, the various charitable institutions.

The Association numbers amongst its members sincere and ardent workers of both sexes who have shown their ability in directing the development of the younger members in the many branches of Y.M.H.A. work, such as Athletics, Debating, Literary, Dramatic and Social, but their work has been hampered by financial difficulties. There are hundreds of young people eager to take advantage of the facilities offered by a Y.M.H.A., as soon as proper conditions prevail.

The appeal for the assistance of the older members of the Community has met with splendid results and under the able direction of Mr. Allen Bronfman, (President of the Orphanage) success is well nigh assured.

Whilst the Y.M.H.A. needs the pledged financial support of the public, it requires also that moral support and advice which will give it the courage to advance and surely, if slowly, to attain its ultimate goal. Confidence is felt that in the very near future the Y.M.H.A. will become all that the name implies.

Kingston

At a large and well-attended gathering of Kingston Jewry at the local Synagog on Wednesday, April 25th, the sum of $1,400.00 was raised for the Keren Hayesod. Following a forceful and inspiring address by Dr. Goldstein, Kingston Zionists responded liberally, and have in a large way shown their appreciation of Zionist ideals. Dr. Goldstein expressed his extreme satisfaction with the results, and hoped that Kingston would fulfil her duties in the future as she has in this undertaking. Mr. S. Zacks acted as chairman of the meeting. Moe Abramsky, organizer of Dr. Goldstein's campaign, was toastmaster. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. and Mrs. K. Zacks entertained the distinguished guest at their home on Ordnance Street. A number of active local Zionists were present.

Baltimore.—J. F. A. Louis H. Levin, Executive Secretary of Associated Jewish Charities, died yesterday after a long illness. A lawyer by profession, he devoted the greater part of his latter years to Jewish philanthropic work.

Montreal

The Federation of Jewish Philanthropies have every reason to believe that their drive for funds will be most successful. Canvassers have been working long and well. In addition to the splendid army of women workers under Mrs. J. Elkin, Mrs. Kuppenheimer and Mrs. S. M. Berliner, there are enthusiastic teams of Hadassah, Y.M.H.A., Bnai Brith and Business Men's Fraternity workers who are doing all in their power to co-operate for the common weal. It's too early to quote figures, but the general outlook seems bright.

Dr. Alexander Goldstein, who for the past few weeks has been touring Ontario in the interests of Zionism, arrived in Montreal last Thursday evening. Dr. Goldstein was met with great success throughout Eastern Canada, spent only a few days with us. From here he will go to Wilmington, Delaware, New York, where he will remain until May 9 for California. Plans are being made for visits to Los Angeles, San Francisco and most of the large towns along the coast.

The Choir and Dramatic Society of Shaar Hashomayim Congregation will make its debut with what promises to be a most delightful entertainment on the evening of May 15, at the New Empire Theatre. The curtain will rise upon a revue of the lighter sort that is sparklingly bright and dainty. Then there will follow a little one-act playlet, "The Twelve Pound Look," by James M. Barrie. The piece de resistance of the performance will be "Trial by Jury," a Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Rehearsals have been coming along very nicely, and this opening event of the society will in all probability be the forerunner of many more of a like nature. No effort has been spared by any member of the organization to make the sketches clever and bright. During the evening, selections will be rendered by an orchestra of 15 pieces, under the leadership of Mr. Louis King.

The officers of the Choral and Dramatic Society are as follows: President, Mrs. Moe M. Fineberg; vice-president, Mrs. Leo Bramson; secretary, Mrs. Sydney Leavitt; treasurer, Mr. Jay Wolfe; musical director, Dr. Percival Illaley; dramatic coach, Miss Hyalie Freeman; business manager, Mr. Leo Bramson; stage manager, Mr. Leo Livingstone.

TEMPLE EMANU-EL

On Sunday afternoon, April 22, the Temple Emanu-El Sisterhood gave a tea at which the members of the cast that presented "The Pennant" were the invited guests. The tea was for the purpose of organizing a dramatic circle under the auspices of the Temple Sisterhood, of which the cast of "The Pennant" were expected to form the nucleus.

Mrs. Gustav Fischel, president of the Sisterhood, explained that the purpose was to bring together a dramatic group that each year would present one big musical affair. The idea further expanded by Rabbi Merritt, Rupert Caplan, Aaron Snyder and Hy. Seman, and other speakers was not only to present one big musical offering from year to year, but to present from time to time dramatic pieces other than musical.

Officers were elected as follows: Aaron Snyder, president; Jack Klein, vicepresident; Mrs. Adolph Aron, secretary; Mrs. Robert Dryer, treasurer.

A by-law committee consisting of Rabbi Merritt, Aaron Snyder, Rupert Caplan and Hy. Seman were appointed to draft a constitution.

A dramatic readers' committee, consisting of Rupert Caplan, Hy. Seman and Mrs. Aaron Snyder was appointed to look after material in preparation for next year's program.

At the next meeting, the constitution and by-laws will be adopted, and the invitation from St. Anne de Bellevue Hospital, to present the "Pennant" before the patients of the hospital will be acted on.

On Sunday, May 20, at 2.30 p.m., the confirmation exercises at Temple Emanu-El will be held.

The confirmants this year will be: Ruth Bercovitch, 337 Roslyn Avenue; Rebecca Darwin, 98 Columbia Avenue; Olga Lewis, 4412 St. Catherine Street, W.; Betty Samuelson, 109 Vendome Avenue; Fanny Roman, 235 Edward Charles Street.

Elaborate preparations are being made for this beautiful Shabouth service, and the Temple extends a cordial welcome to all the friends of the confirmants in the community to be present at this service at which the confirmants are the centre.

The Religious School

The pupils of the Religious School are planning the presentation of the closing play of the year to take place the first week in June. The play is a clever little "school days" skit, and promises to be extremely interesting.

Brotherhood

On Tuesday evening, April 18, the Brotherhood of Temple Emanu-El met for its regular monthly dinner and program session in the lecture hall of the Temple. Eighty members sat down to the delicious collation prepared by a group of ladies of the Sisterhood, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Gustav Fischel.

The president, Clarence Michaels, was in the chair. Raports of the various committees were presented. The employment committee of the Brotherhood, under the chairmanship of Mr. Martin Simon, presented an excellent report of service rendered, four applicants for employment having been satisfactorily placed since the last meeting.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Armand Lavergne, of Quebec, took as his subject, "Canada, Our Country." Mr. Lavergne told his audience that he was an outspoken Nationalist, and viewed every problem in the light of how it affected the welfare and future of Canada first and only. He was not in favour of imperialistic policies that called upon Canada to fight for causes far beyond its borders, and took from Canada the right to decide whether those causes were justifiable. He believed that Canada was ready for complete independence and control of its own fortunes and destiny. On the other hand, he warned against any relationship with the United States that might make Canada merely an extension of the territory of United States. He spoke proudly of the Province of Quebec and its reputation for freedom, tolerance, justice and equitable treatment of minorities. He pointed out that bilingualism was a great advantage to any state, and analysed the fine contribution that Anglo-Saxon and French culture have made to the common treasury of Quebec's life and traditions.

He was heartily applauded for his brilliant, sparkling and well constructed address. Mr. Maxwell Goldstein, in the vote of thanks commented ably on the advantages that lay in the contact between men like Armand Lavergne and representative bodies of Jews.

The musical entertainment of the evening, through the efforts of Mr. Arthur Schalek, was particularly fine. Mr. I. Goldberg, the radio singer, delighted his audience with solos. Hargreave brothers, two lads, who are masters of the banjo, pleased the audience mightily with their work. Mr. L. Edwards sang Sain Howard's song hits, and rendered two beautiful solos. The Ritz-Carlton Orchestra, under the leadership of Prof. Berliner, crowned an unusual evening with several choice numbers that took the brotherhood by storm.

Mr. Morris Michaels gave the vote of thanks to the entertainers; and Mr. Michael Hirsch gave the vote of thanks to the ladies. A number of guests were in attendance at the dinner.

The regular weekly meeting of the Central Chapter of Hadassah took the form of an "At Home" at the residence of Mrs. H. Rosenbaum, Jeanne Mance Street, last Monday afternoon. The girls and young women who so enthusiastically offered their services during the Keren Hayesod drive were the guests of the Chapter. Mrs. E. G. Bernstein, the president, presided.

Bnai Brith

On April 11, the Mount Royal Lodge held its first annual supper and dance at the Mount Royal Hotel. This dance was one of the most successful social events of the season in Montreal, and has done more to bring the Mount Royal Lodge before the public eye than could be accomplished by more customary methods.

On April 26, the Mount Royal Lodge celebrated Past-Presidents' Night, at which were present most of our Past Presidents, each of whom delivered a brief address on Bnai Brith work.

At the annual elections of The Bnai Jacob Young People's Society, held recently, the following officers were elected for next session: President, Joseph Shapiro, B.C.L.; vice-president, Al Raginsky; treasurer, Dr. E. A. Kutzman; recording secretary, Miss Martha Maislin; corresponding secretary, Miss Hattie Ginsberg. Executive members: The Misses Edna Silver, Anna Klein and Kate Godinsky and Messrs. Oscar Reinhart and Max Notkin.

The last McGill conservatorium orchestral concert of the season was held in the Royal Victoria College last week the program featuring Haydn's London Symphony, a Chopin Piano Concert and a Hiawatha Suite by Coleridge-Taylor. Ben Schneider played the Devil's Trill Sonato, Tartini; and Miss Etta Pinsler sang Sanderson's "Spring's Awakening." All the performers came away with flying colours.

Miss Bella Lende who was a patient at the Royal Victoria Hospital is now convalescing at her home Park Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Kert, of Iroquois Falls, Ontario, have returned home after spending a few weeks in Montreal.

Dr. Alexander Goldstein was a guest at the Mount Royal Hotel this week.

Miss Rema Pinsky entertained a number of friends at a supper dance at the Venetian Gardens on May 2, to mark the completion of her training at the Hebrew Maternity Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Joseph and their daughter, Mrs. Sebag Montefiore, have returned from spending several weeks in Atlantic City.

Dr. and Mrs. Alton Goldbloom, Bishop Street, returned from New York this week.

Mrs. Mendola De Sola and Miss Louise De Sola, MacGregor Street, are sailing on May 4, by the Montcalm, for England, where they will spend some time.

Mr. Karl Kusnar, of Iroquois Falls, Ontario, has returned home after spending two weeks in Montreal.

HADASSAH CHAPTERS HOLD THEATRICAL NIGHT

The performance of "Katcha-Koo" for two evenings last week, under the auspices of the local Senior and Junior Hadassah Chapters, was a great success, and reflects very creditably on all those who gave of their time and talents towards this end. Particular mention must be made of the untiring efforts of Miss Lillian Gineberg, the assistant-director, in appreciation of whose services the Hadassah Chapters presented her with a beautiful bouquet of roses on the opening night. Large and appreciative audiences viewed both performances with keen enjoyment, and the verdict was that a red-letter occasion had been passed in the annals of dramatic performances by Ottawa Jewry.

"Katcha-Koo" is an oriental fantasy which gives the cast ample scope for singing, dancing and comedy. One of the special features was the dancing and singing of the children, of whom there were about one hundred performers. The veil-dance by the elder girls was especially good and was featured by an excellent solo dance by Miss Miriam Caplan. The Misses Bee Benewick and May Snipper, who gave an exhibition of the Argentine Tango, were greeted with much applause. The music throughout is very catchy and was finely interpreted by the orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Manny Gates. The following is the complete cast: Katcha-Koo, a holy fakir, Charles Abrahams; Solejah, a widow of a wizard, Mae Brodie; Urbanah, high priestess of the temple, Blanche Millar; Dick Horton, a collector of adventures, Dave. Millar; Harry Bradstone, a collector of antiques, Sam Goldberg; Mararajah of Hunga, an East Indian, Moe Hirsch; Boodypah, a slave, Abe Lieff; La Belle Elysee, French, wife of Maharajah, Freda Lecovin; Patsy Kildare, Irish wife of Mararajah, Rose Miller; Brazilitana, Brazilian wife of Marharajah, Esther Richter; Chin Chin Foo, Chinese wife of Maharajah, Rose Max; Mrs. Chattie Gaddin, a rich Canadian widow, Lillian Ginsbert; Dolly, her charming daughter, Pauline Gould; Prudence, another daughter, Pearl Slonemsky; Miss Canada, Mildred Gorfinkle; device-bearer, Julius Holdberg; gong-beater, Bernard Brodie; two slaves fan-bearers, Lawrence Freiman and Herbert Myers.
